

Using the Fame Database

The Fame database is designed as an optional means for the Storytellers in OWBN to record PCs and NPCs with Fame Background of 3 and higher. Storyteller staff members with an account on the OWBN.net website can add characters to this database

Please follow the steps below to add PC/NPCs to the Fame Database.

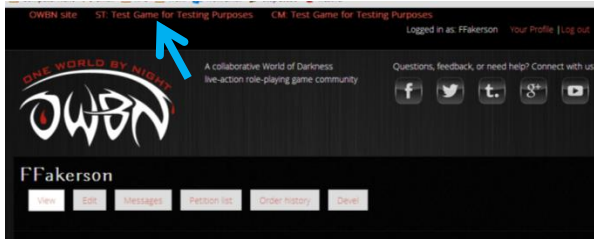

1. Go to the OWBN.net website, and click on Staff Login.

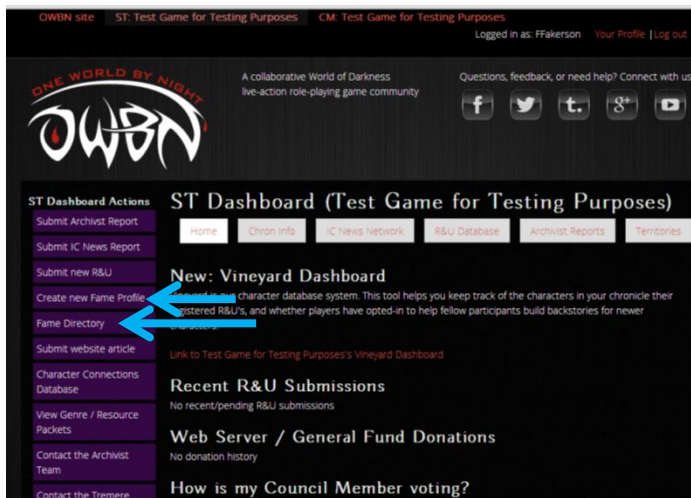

2. Log into the site with your account username and password

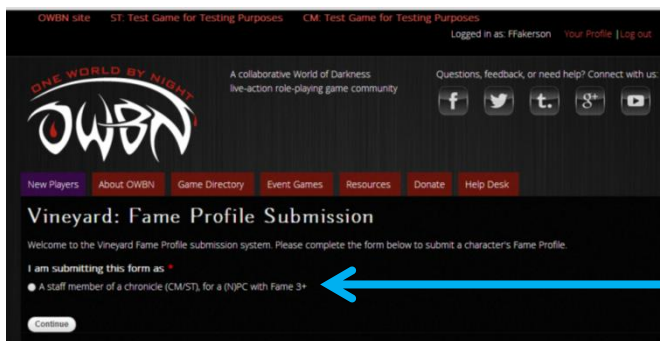

3. Click on ST: (Name of Chronicle) at the top of the screen.

- To create a new fame profile, click on “Create a new Fame Profile”
Alternatively, to view the fame directory (which includes ST contact), click on “Fame Directory”. This directory will include the Chronicle and St Email address.

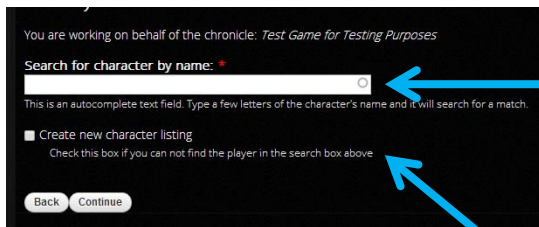

- Follow the instructions on the submission system, clicking on “continue” after each choice. This information will not be visible on the public fame page.

Keep in mind that Coordinators and Storytellers/CMs use the same form. Your options will be different depending on your role in the Org.

There are people who are part of multiple storytelling teams. Please choose the Chronicle the PC/NPC is based out of, and has ultimate Storyteller oversight.

R&U PCs in YOUR chronicle are already part of the database, those in your chronicle can be searched by name. This is also how you can edit an existing Fame character.

If this is a new or non-R&U PC, then check this option.

6. Fill out the information for the Character name, creature type, and Creature. Mortal NPCs are under “Other”. Click “continue” when done.

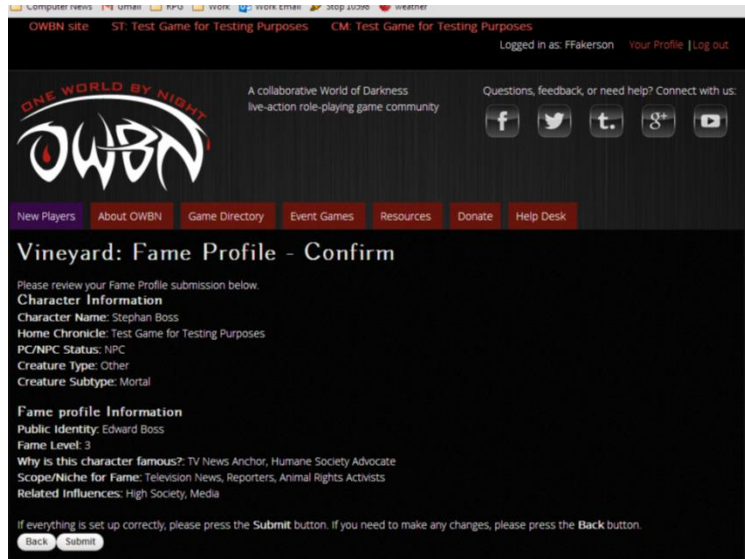

The screenshot shows the 'Vineyard: Fame Profile: Select Character' form. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links: 'New Players', 'About OWBN', 'Game Directory', 'Event Games', 'Resources', 'Donate', and 'Help Desk'. There is a checkbox for 'Create new character listing' with a note: 'Check this box if you can not find the player in the search box above'. The form includes a 'Character Name' input field, a 'Creature type' dropdown menu with 'Other' selected, an 'Other Subtype' dropdown menu with 'Mortal' selected, and a 'PC or NPC?' section with two radio buttons: 'This is a Player Character (PC)' and 'This is a non-Player Character (NPC)'. At the bottom, there are 'Back' and 'Continue' buttons.

7. Fill out the Fame information. This information is IC, and is visible on the website.

A note states: 'Please provide the following details for this character's Fame Profile. Keep in mind that the info you list here will be considered public knowledge. Players will have access to info regarding the public persona. Storytellers will know who the character is and which home chronicle to contact.' The form includes a 'Name / Mortal Alias' input field with a note: 'What is the name for this character's public persona?'. There is a 'Fame Level' section with three radio buttons: '3 (State)', '4 (Adjoining States)', and '5 (Entire Country)', with a note: 'Level of this character's Fame Background'. Below that is a 'Why is this character famous?' text area with a note: 'Ex: Writer, Crime Boss, Pop Star, etc. - feel free to give a brief description - this is IC common knowledge (visible to players and STs)'. There is also a 'Scope/Niche' text area with a note: 'Is this character known to the mainstream or to specific subgroups (only among hackers, the medical profession, or the design community - as examples) - this is IC common knowledge (visible to players and STs)'. At the bottom, there are 'Back' and 'Continue' buttons.

It features a list of categories with checkboxes: 'Bureaucracy', 'Church', 'Frisch', 'Health', 'High Society', 'Industry', 'Legal', 'Media', 'Occult', 'Police', 'Political', 'Street', 'Transportation', 'Underworld', and 'University'. As an example, a notorious crime boss may be known within Police and Underworld'. At the bottom, there are 'Back' and 'Continue' buttons.

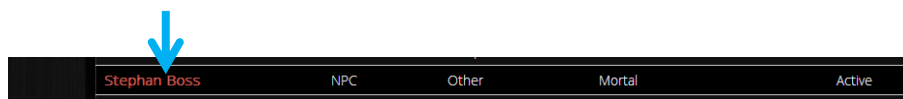

8. This final step will display the profile information.
Click “Submit” if this information is correct, and it will publish to the database.
Click on “back” to return to a previous step and correct the information.
