The Danse Macabre: Sabbat Status

While the Sabbat is quick to espouse the freedom it offers, the sect has a nascent status structure to delineate the established Elders from the Neonates and shovelheads. It offers those in power a chance to recognize members who excel and punish those who fail. While any Bishop is quick to assure his or her diocese that they are all free Sabbat, with that comes the understanding that there are those who contribute to the cause of freedom more than others.

Sabbat status places more of an emphasis on accomplishments, rather than perception. Unlike Camarilla status, measures of standing based on accomplishment are earned for specific acts, and once awarded, cannot easily be removed.

Status reflects themes of decadence and vanity, which are relevant to Vampire. The rules in this packet should work for you, allowing you to laud your accomplishments, embarrass your enemies, and manipulate others. Deeds should be known, be they great or foolish, and the status a PC has reflects what he has done and is known for.

Mechanics

Below is a list of some of the basic mechanics of how Sabbat Status works within OWbN Sabbat genre:

1. You may bid a Status Trait instead of a regular Trait in any applicable social challenge. You MUST tell the opposing party that you wish to use your Status Traits in the challenge.
2. Your Status Traits may be used to add to your Social Traits during an applicable social challenge. You MUST tell the opposing party that you wish to use your Status Traits in the challenge.
3. If an individual wishes to use their Status Traits in a social challenge, you may choose to ignore their Status. This, of course, prevents you from using your own Status in said challenge. An individual who chooses to select this option will immediately gain the Negative Status Trait Unworthy
4. Status may be added to all Ritae Challenges to perform and execute them. In other words, that you gain a number of Bonus Social Traits equal to your Status in the Static to perform Ritae. This does NOT mean that all War Parties gain additional bonus traits equal to your status to kill someone. The bonus from Status Traits ONLY applies to the Static challenge to perform Ritae.
5. The Maximum status for any player character is 5 Reputational Status Traits + any Positional Status Traits.

Role-Playing Status

It is not enough that Vampires are elevated above the mortals; in the Sword of Caine, there is competition to be the first among equals. Status is observed in many situations, both social and formal, and is often a determining factor in resolving disputes. Consider the following examples, but these scenarios should not be used to limit other equally valid uses:

- When performing Ritae at any gathering with two or more priests, it is expected that the right of first refusal will go to the priest with the most standing. Though it is not uncommon for a well-established priest to defer the honor, performing a Ritae without first offering to one's betters is considered a slap in the face.
- When performing the Vaulderie, it is traditional that the priest offer the chalice first to the highest ranking Cainite. "It is the privilege of the pack leader or vampire of the highest rank to put in the highest number of Traits..." (LotN:R, p. 225). Taking a leading role in the sect's most important ritus allows for a clear demonstration of power, and Cainites with great standing are often motivated to display it.

- In a diocese, packs whose members have more status are within their rights to demand better territory and more favorable roles during warfare than packs whose members lack status.

Status matters in challenges of Monomacy. Cainites who seek to challenge their betters should not always expect those they challenge to accept.

In the Sabbat, there are no Harpies and status is not something the cainites discuss possessing or granting. For example, during an esbat the Archbishop may publically speak and congratulate a Cainite on diablerizing a Camarilla pawn, but they would not hold court announcing they are granting that Cainite the status of enriched. It is up to individuals to expect deference from those who hold less standing than they, and to bring disputes to a priest should an issue ensue. While bowing and other displays of obedience are out of place in the Sabbat between those of equal rank, those who carry greater standing walk a little prouder and stand a little taller than those who lack it. After all, they've earned it. Those who have yet to prove themselves are often assigned dangerous or arbitrary tasks such as body disposal, or doing the grunt work to set up Games of Instinct.

Those who enjoy positions in the Sabbat are able to use the status system to great effect, drawing upon tools with which to reward or punish those beneath them. An Archbishop may grant status to establish the pecking order of Bishops who report to him, delineating the chain of command in a clear manner. Those ranking Cainites who have Templars in their employ may do the same for their Templars, establishing a hierarchy among their subordinates.

It is just as important to give respect in order to receive it. Those Brothers and Sisters who are disrespectful of their fellows and social betters can expect to be singled out and made an example of. Cainites are prideful creatures and the threat of humiliation is enough to motivate most Sabbat to adhere to social norms. The Sabbat tends to reward those with a knack for martial prowess but stepping out of line carries the risk of provoking the ire of the powerful.

Types of Status

Positional Status: Traits are awarded upon taking a position/office within the Sabbat hierarchy. The specific traits awarded are listed below in the "Hierarchy of the Sabbat" section. These traits may never be removed or lost as long as the character holds the position that grants them. Should the character leave the position that granted them Positional Status (but not if they are removed from the position), they may then convert them to Reputational Status traits instead (however, these cannot exceed the cap on Reputational Status of 5 Maximum).

Reputational Status is awarded for acts and efforts made in the Sword of Caine. The Sabbat respects the word-of-mouth reputation of a vampire. As such, Reputational Status may only be gained after the character meets specific criteria. How these status traits are awarded and by whom is found in chapter 4.

Negative Status is placed upon members of the Sabbat for serious misconduct within the sect. This can be anything from acting cowardly to minor infractions against the Sabbat itself. The list of available Negative Status traits can be found in chapter 4, as well as how they are earned and removed.

Gaining Status

Gaining of Status is done differently depending on the type of status being awarded. In the Sabbat, there are three types of Status Traits: Positional Status (which represents any positions held in the Sabbat), Reputational Status

(representing the character's reputation to the Sabbat as a whole), and Negative Status (misdeeds or actions in the sect that result in a bad reputation).

There are also some general rules to gaining status in the Sabbat:

- The first Status Trait gained by any Sabbat character must be Initiated (much akin to how the first status trait gained by Camarilla characters must be Acknowledged). The trait of Initiated is the prerequisite for acquiring any and all other Sabbat Status and is considered a positional status trait.
- This trait is awarded through the creation ritae or through an initiation Ritae for converts..
- Should a Cainite have his Initiated status removed by a bishop or higher, that individual is subject to immediate destruction (LotN:S, p. 164). Note that, unlike the Camarilla, this does not necessitate the removal of the individual's other status first. This must be done through a sacred Ritae, as presented below.
- Later on in the packet it will list each Reputational Status and Negative Traits commonly accepted in the Sabbat. Within them will list how they are awarded and by whom.
- A pack acting in unison can give its members a status trait.

Positional Status

This Status is gained through service to the sect in some official capacity. It represents the various positions and prestige of those offices within the sect. The number and specifics of Status traits are based upon position(s) held. The Maximum number of allowed Positional Status traits is determined by the number of Sabbat Positions the character holds at one time. A character may only hold 1 sect position and 1 pack position at a time, unless stated otherwise.

Reputational Status

Reputational status is gained and lost based upon how others view you, particularly your pack and your diocese. They are earned and lost as others praise your deeds and condemn your mistakes. A Character can have a maximum of 5 Reputational Status that they may claim at any one time. It is expected that replacement of older Reputational Status, and gaining of new, should happen frequently due to the fluid nature of the Sabbat. Regardless of this, the maximum remains 5 for Reputational Status traits. Each reputational Status has certain requirements.

Negative Status

These are traits that represent a failure or shortcoming. They are gained (and removed) based on how others view you. A character may never have more than 2 Negative Status Traits at a time. Any new ones after that simply replace one of the older ones. A Negative Status Trait may be bid against the character by another member of the Sabbat in any Social Challenge, as per a Negative Social Trait. Additionally, while the character suffers from ANY negative Status Traits, they may not call upon their Status Traits as Bonus Traits in any challenge.

This is Negative Status, a stain upon the reputation of a Cainite until such a time as they are able to demonstrate they've learned from their mistakes. Negative status can be earned for a variety of reasons, subject to the specific status. Once incurred, “a Vampire may earn the removal of [a negative status] by twice successfully completing whatever task it was he [or she] failed at to earn the negative Trait in the first place. A failed priest removes Untrustworthy by performing rites correctly twice; a Dangerous vampire goes on two hunts without making trouble for packmates and so on...” (LotN:S, p 160).

Losing Status

Sabbat Status is lost in the following ways:

Positional

The character is removed from the position by which they gained the positional status.

Reputational

For all sabbat, a pack acting in unison can strip one of its members of a non-position based status, though stripping a packmate of a status awarded by a position of high repute may come with its own troubles.

In the case of the founded Sabbat Vampires, Reputational Status may be removed in one of two ways. Firstly, the character has acted counter to the status awarded and a bishop (or higher) may spend 1 temporary status trait to remove a permanent level of Reputational Sabbat Status from a founded Cainite subject to their jurisdiction if the Cainite is of lower clerical station than himself.

The second way in which a character may lose Reputational Status is if all the ducti of the packs in the city in which the character resides spend 1 temporary status trait to remove the Reputational Statustrait.

For Nomadic Sabbat vampires, Reputational Status can be removed by a group of 3 Nomadic Priests spending 1 temporary status trait each to remove the Reputational Status trait of another nomadic Sabbat vampire. This is also done when the character has violated or disrespected the means by which he earned the status in the first place.

Creating New Status Traits

If the character is not being awarded one of the status traits found in chapter 4 for their Reputational or Negative Status, and is instead making up a new Status Trait it must be done as follows: Only a bishop (or higher), or in the case of Nomadic Sabbat, 3 combined pack priests, can award the new Reputational or Negative Status. They do this by Spending 1 Temporary Reputation Trait (or 1 each for the 3 nomads) to award the character the new Reputational or Negative Status trait. The conditions of how this new trait is awarded and lost should be determined upon creation of the new Status trait.

Loaning Status

A Sabbat vampire may lend the weight of their reputation and name to a Sabbat vampire to make a show of support and means for the recipient to be taken notice of on an issue. A player character may loan any number of their Reputational Status traits for the night to another Sabbat vampire. In doing so they may not call upon those Reputational Status traits for the remainder of the night. Additionally, should the vampire whom they support use their name in vain, they also may be on the receiving end of status loss or negative status. They are considered to be able to be targeted for removal of Reputational Status or gain Negative Status while they lend their Reputational Status to another Sabbat vampire. This can be roleplayed by them being called to task as a co-conspirator for whatever acts were taken.

Clan Status

The following clans gain the following Positional Status at character creation due to their printed clan advantages in Laws of the Night: Guide to the Sabbat:

- Lasombra: All members of clan Lasombra gain the Status Trait of Respected as long as they are members of the Sabbat.
- Ventrué Antitribu: All members of clan Ventrué Antitribu gain one of the following Status Traits: Respected, Righteous, Passionate, or Feared as long as they are members of the Sabbat.
- Assamite Antitribu: All members of clan Assamite Antitribu gain the Status Trait of Feared as long as they are members of the Sabbat.

Sabbat Factions Status

Several of the Sabbat Factions grant mechanical advantages to status and are an exception to the normal rules on Sabbat Status. Below you will find the list of which faction, rank and status they gain as a result.

- Moderates, Commissar: Gain the Positional Status Trait of Dedicated
- Status Quo, Father/Mother: Gain the Positional Status Trait of Favored

Resting on Your Laurels

The nature of Status in the Sabbat is that newer deeds replace the old. Those who rest on the deeds of the past are often ridiculed by those who do not. This is the driving dynamic of the aspect of the Sabbat genre of Old vs. Young. Use of the Politics ability allows a member of the Sabbat to know when each Status trait was awarded. Reputational Status Trait that is a year or more old may be removed by a Bishop and above, even if the trait could not be normally removed.

Word of Honor

The Sabbat has no harpies or official system of prestation. However, Sabbat vampires like any other do engage in trade in favors or “Boons”. Article 4 four of the Code of Milan states “All Sabbat shall keep their word of honor to one another.” This is in actuality how Sabbat trade favors to one another. While no one keeps track of favors owed from one Sabbat to the next, and the sect does not use the term “boon”, they instead agree on their Word of Honor to owe another Sabbat vampire in the future. A Sabbat’s Word of Honor can not be traded to another Sabbat vampire. It is an agreement between two Sabbat of acknowledgment of a debt owed and a favor to be repaid for whatever service one Sabbat vampire does for another.

Sabbat Positions

If a position is considered part of the Sabbat clergy, it will be noted as such below. The clergy is the leadership of the Sabbat. Bishops report to archbishops and they in turn report to cardinals. As you go up in the ranks, more areas are controlled and more underlings are managed. The clergy has the packs in their areas, templars, paladins, and even the lower-ranked clergy to delegate tasks to. However, delegating too much power may be taken as a sign of weakness. Only those Sabbat positions of the Clergy (and the title of Ordained Priest) are allowed to practice ritae. A player character may only have one sect position and one pack position, unless otherwise noted. They may have any number of titles provided they have been granted them by the appropriate clergy or their faction.

Player Characters

Below you will find all the positions in the Sabbat open to Player Characters in One World by Night.

True Sabbat (Title)

All Initiated Cainites are considered True Sabbat. Only True Sabbat can hold positions, participate in Ritae, or gain any of the benefits of status. Cainites are Initiated after undergoing the Creation Rites. This usually happens upon the embrace, but not always. Some Packs require a Cainite to prove a familiarity with the proper behavior during Ritae, with the sect's goals or some other criteria. Often Sect defectors must prove themselves before becoming Initiated.

- The Cainite gains the Initiated Status Trait.
- Only a Bishop, Archbishop, Cardinal or the Regent may remove this title.

Abbot (Pack Position)

The Abbot is the caretaker of the Pack's communal haven and ensures the Pack has a food source. This is a Pack Position and does not prevent a character from holding other positions within the Sect.

- The Cainite gains the Loyal Status. As long as the Cainite holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- The Abbot can ignore one order given by a packmate who directly jeopardizes their haven.
- The Abbot may spend a Status Trait in a Hunting challenge for a retest once per night.

Pack Priest (Clergy, Pack Position)

The Priest is the Pack's spiritual leader. There may be other Priests within the Pack but it is the task of the Pack Priest to lead the Ritae and chart the spiritual progression of his/her packmates. The Pack Priest also acts as an intermediary between the pack and the Sect. This position does not prevent a character from holding other positions within the Sect.

- The Cainite gains the Enlightened Status. As long as the Cainite holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed
- The Pack Priest is responsible for running Pack Ritae. It is their ability to do so that determines the effects of the Ritae. (See page 140 in the MET Sabbat Guide for further details on Ritae.)
- Once per night, a Pack Priest may spend a Status Trait to retest a Ritae challenge.
- A Pack Priest can act as an acolyte and assist another member of the clergy to perform Ritae. Each assisting Priest grants 2 bonus traits to the challenge.
- Pack Priests of the Sabbat are the "base level" of the Priesthood. A Pack Priest is allowed to learn (and perform) the Ritae without fear of scrutiny from the clergy (i.e., other priests, Bishops, Archbishops, etc.).

- For nomadic Packs the Priest appoints all other positions within a Pack.
- For nomadic Packs, except in time of war, the priest's orders must be followed by the pack, unless removed or challenged via Monomacy.

Ordained Priest (Clergy, Title)

Ordained Priests are retired Pack Priests or other clergy. They are those of the Sabbat who at one point or another served in the clerical hierarchy and learned the ritae. As long as they commit no faux paux they maintain the right to practice ritae. This position is appointed by a Bishop, Archbishop, Cardinal, or the Regent. If an Ordained Priest joins the Clergy; they lose this position, they may otherwise hold another position in the sect, and enjoy benefits from both..

- An Ordained Priest is allowed to keep his Enlightened Status Trait as a Reputational Trait, as well as continue to practice the Ritae (though he/she is not to teach the Ritae to others).
- An Ordained Priest can act as an acolyte and assist another member of the clergy to perform Ritae. Each assisting Priest grants 2 bonus traits to the challenge.
- Should the Ordained Priest be deemed to have dragged the name of the priesthood through the mud, then 3 or more Pack Priests may come together and spend 1 temporary Status (each) to permanently remove the Enlightened status that marks an Ordained Priest.

Ductus (Pack Position)

The Ductus is the Pack's martial leader. This individual may be the strongest or the most charismatic person in the Pack. Most importantly, the Ductus has authority over the Pack in the eyes of the bishopric. This is a Pack Position and does not prevent a character from holding positions within the sect.

Ducti have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Feared Status Trait. As long as the Cainite holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- For founded Packs the Ductus appoints all other positions within a Pack.
- For founded Packs, and all packs in times of war, the Ductus's orders must be followed by the pack, unless removed or challenged via Monomacy.
- A Ductus is awe-inspiring when he/she leads his pack. Once per night, a Ductus may expend a Status Trait to refresh a spent Willpower trait of one of their packmates.

Faction Leader (Title)

These are the recognized heads of the Sabbat Factions. While not a position within the Sect, these Cainites hold a great deal of status and sway within the Sabbat itself. Faction leaders may hold other positions in the sect, and enjoy benefits from both. This position is Sabbat Coordinator approval.

Faction Leaders:

- Gains the Feared and Respected Status Traits. As long as the Cainite holds the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- Faction Leaders may only hold one other Sabbat position in addition to this one.
- Faction leaders have final say on Faction Policy and direction. Many will listen instead of dictating the policy of the faction, but this is not always the case.

- o As such, Faction Leaders may remove any Sabbat Vampire from their respective Faction with the expenditure of a temporary Status Trait. This is usually done only when the vampire has betrayed the Faction, in some way.
- o A vampire so ejected from his Faction may not rejoin his former faction (though he could, in theory, join another) until the Faction Leader allows him to return.

Consul (Title)

The position of Consul is a new one to the Sabbat. However, the position itself is not exclusive to the Sabbat. Indeed, the Consul position may be found in all sects of Vampires. It is understood at times there is a need for diplomatic relations, even if it is with the enemy. As such, the Consul serves this purpose for the Sabbat. They are expected to be emissaries to outsiders to the sect when called upon to do so by their leaders. (See V20 Companion page 32 for further information.) Consul may hold other positions in the sect, and enjoy benefits from both.

Those who are Consuls to the Sabbat have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Diplomatic Positional Status Trait. As long as the character holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- Only Sabbat Cainites of the positional rank of Archbishop or higher may appoint a Sabbat as Consul. Only one Consul may be appointed by an individual in this manner. Additionally, the Cainite that appointed the Consul may remove them from the position at will.
- Sabbat Consuls enjoy a sort of diplomatic immunity in regards to interactions with supernaturals outside of the Sabbat. As long as the Consul acts within his position of emissary of the Sabbat to outsiders, they may not be punished for said interactions with those outside of the sect.
- Should a Consul be harmed or killed while serving in his duties by an individual or individuals outside of the Sabbat, it is understood the individual or individuals responsible will be considered enemies of the Sabbat and pursued unto death.

Templar (Sect Position)

Templars are the aides, lackeys, and strong-arms of the Sabbat Clergy. Some Bishops prefer their Templars to be called Paladins. While there is no rule against this, it is best that such a Templar not flaunt the title, lest a Cardinal's Paladin take notice. Templar PCs and NPCs to Cardinals, Prisci, Consistory Members, or the Regent are Sabbat Coordinator Approval.

Templars have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Respected and Ominous Status Traits. As long as the Cainite holds the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- The Templar can disobey an order from an officer who is lower-ranked than the one whom the Templar serves, so long as his or her disobedience is “in the line of duty.” For example, if the Templar's liege refuses to support him/her, then normal Sabbat justice takes its course.
- Templars can carry any or all authority and powers of the office they serve as given to them by their liege.

Paladin (Sect Position)

Paladin are the elite Templars of the Cardinals. By tradition, for every Cardinal, there are 12 Paladins. This is based on “One for each of Charlemagne's paladins” or “each of the apostles” (depending on whom you ask). These individuals tend to be quite old, and view a mark of dishonor on one Paladin to be a mark on them all. Because of this, Paladins tend to be very protective of their title and do not look highly on Templars who would call themselves Paladins, lest they soil the title for them all. As Paladins are the elite of a Cardinal's Templars, it is possible that a Cardinal may have regular Templars, as well. This Position is Sabbat Coordinator Approval for PCs and NPCs.

- The Cainite gains the Respected, Ominous and Proven Status Traits. As long as the character holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- The Paladin can disobey an order from an officer who is lower-ranked than the one whom the Templar serves, so long as his or her disobedience is “in the line of duty.” For example, if the Templar's liege refuses to support him/her, then normal Sabbat justice takes its course.
- Paladins can carry any or all authority and powers of the office they serve as given to them by their liege.

Bishop (Clergy, Sect Position)

The Bishops are the local leaders of the Sabbat. Often responsible for a medium sized metropolis area, it is possible that a city may have no Archbishop and only several Bishops, or even an Archbishop and several assisting Bishops. Unless directly serving an Archbishop, the Bishops answer directly to a Cardinal.

To become a Bishop, you must be appointed by your area's Archbishop or (in the case of no Archbishop for your area) the Cardinal of your area. This Position is approved In-Character in this manner, as well as through Storyteller permission.

Those who are Bishops have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Feared and Proven Status Traits. As long as they hold the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- The Bishop can appoint and remove Ducti and Priests for the Packs within their jurisdiction. However, they can not appoint or remove the Ducti or Priests of nomadic packs.
- Once a night, a Bishop may expend a Status Trait for a free retest on any one Ritae challenge.
- The Bishop can choose to lead the Ritae in which they participate .
- A Bishop can act as an acolyte and assist another member of the clergy to perform Ritae. Each assisting bishop grants 4 bonus traits to the challenge.

The Bishop can appoint (and remove) their own Templars.

- To promote an individual to Templar, the Bishop must spend a temporary Status Trait.
- The Bishop must likewise spend a temporary Status Trait to dismiss their own Templar.
- To appoint a Templar the Bishop must perform the Ignoblis Ritae The Anointing on them.
- A Bishop may strip an individual of their position as True Sabbat. This is done in response to serious violations of the Sabbat's governing code by the individual being stripped of their position.
 - This ability requires the Bishop to spend one temporary Status Trait for anyone below their rank they wish to strip the position from.
 - This ability costs one permanent Status Trait to use on someone of equal rank, as well as needing the approval of a member of the clergy one rank higher.
 - This ability cannot be used on anyone higher than their rank.
 - Using this ability on high-ranking individuals without a VERY good reason may result in dire consequences.

- The Bishop can set the terms by which nomadic Packs may enter his/her jurisdiction, though they cannot refuse passage to a Pack that acknowledges his/her authority and takes part in Ritae. They can restrict a Pack's ability to act independently while residing in the area that is under their jurisdiction.

Inquisitors (Sect Position)

The thirty individuals who run the Sabbat Inquisition are called "Inquisitors." This position is Sabbat Coordinator Approval for PCs and NPCs.

Those who are Inquisitors have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Confirmed, Feared, and Ominous Status Traits. As long as the character holds the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- An Inquisitor has the ability to appoint (and dismiss) their own Templars and Paladins at the cost of one temporary Status Trait each.
- An Inquisitor has the authority to move and accuse, as they will. Though Trials are often required.
- Those who play Inquisitors must talk to the Sabbat Coordinator about specific duties and social obligations, since Inquisitors have the authority to depose Ducti and Priests alike (even the Archbishops and Cardinals are not safe from the Inquisition).
- Inquisitors may hold no other Sabbat position besides Pack Positions while they serve as Inquisitors.
- An Inquisitor may only be removed from the position by the Grand Inquisitor or the Consistory.

Archbishop (Clergy, Sect Position)

Archbishops rule over an entire city and its outlying suburbs. In practice, Archbishops control much larger areas or a large section of the true metropolises of the world. Not often does it happen that an individual becomes an Archbishop without first being a Bishop, and those rare few who do are surely pressured to be trained as a member of the Priesthood. To become an Archbishop you must have the approval of your area's Cardinal. This Position is approved In-Character in this manner and through Storyteller permission.

Archbishops gain the abilities of Bishops and also have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Feared, Proven, and Relentless Status Traits. As long as they hold the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
 - An Archbishop can act as an acolyte and assist another member of the clergy to perform Ritae. Each assisting archbishop grants 6 bonus traits to the challenge.
- The Archbishop can appoint and remove Bishops within his/her jurisdiction.
- The Bishop can appoint (and remove) their own Templars.
 - Promoting or dismissing a Templar in service to themselves costs them nothing.
 - To appoint a Templar the Archbishop must perform the Ignoblis Ritae The Anointing on them.
 - An Archbishop may expend a Status Trait to win a Ritae performance challenge with no test once per night.
 - An Archbishop may strip an individual of their position as True Sabbat. This is done in response to serious violations of the Sabbat's governing code by the individual being stripped of their position.
 - This ability requires the Archbishop to spend one temporary Status Trait for anyone below their rank they wish to strip the position from.
 - This ability costs one permanent Status Trait to use on someone of equal rank, as well as needing the approval of a member of the clergy one rank higher.
 - This ability cannot be used on anyone higher than their rank.

- Using this ability on high-ranking individuals without a VERY good reason may result in dire consequences.
- The Archbishop can set the terms by which nomadic Packs may enter his/her jurisdiction, though they cannot refuse passage to a Pack that acknowledges his/her authority and takes part in Ritae. They can restrict a Pack's ability to act independently while residing in the area that is under their jurisdiction.
- In the case of gross abuses of the Ritae, the Archbishop can Black List the Priest or other participants. No Cainite who has been Black-Listed by Clergy can move up the ranks of the Clergy without getting a member of the Clergy of equal or greater rank to remove them from the Black List. In cases where the Black-Listing Clergy is disgraced, their successor will generally remove the Black Listing upon taking office.

Priscus (Clergy, Sect Position)

The Prisci are the advisers to the Regent, Cardinals, Archbishops, and Councils of Bishops (and occasionally others). Generally, these individuals hold vast power in the form of physical prowess, mental acumen, or favors owed. They will, at times, act on their own. In general though, they act as mentors for younger Cainites. This Position is Sabbat Coordinator Approval for NPCs and PCs.

Prisci have the following apply:

- The Cainite gains the Confirmed, Feared, and Infamous Status Traits. As long as the Cainite holds the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- Only a Priscus can appoint or remove another vampire as Priscus.
 - ○ This costs the Priscus one temporary Status Trait and usually only happens after all the Prisci in a given area agree to the appointment or removal.
 - ○ Once awarded the position, the new Priscus is assigned to a particular Sabbat leader. This affiliation is not fixed and it can change with time.
- The Priscus can spend a temporary Status Trait to ignore any single order given by any vampire of lower station than the one the Priscus serves.
- Priscus can use their Status Traits for retests in Mental Challenges directly related to advice he's giving to his leader (e.g., testing an infiltration plan, or scouting out a saboteur).
- A Priscus can appoint (and remove) their own Templars. These actions cost the Priscus nothing.
- Once a night, a Bishop may expend a Status Trait for a free retest on any one Ritae challenge.
- The Priscus can choose to lead the Ritae in which they participate.
- A Priscus can act as an acolyte and assist another member of the clergy to perform Ritae. Each assisting Priscus grants 6 bonus traits to the challenge.
- The Priscus can strip a Sabbat member of one or more permanent Reputational Status Traits for inappropriate performance of the Ritae. This costs the Priscus nothing for the first three Traits, and a temporary Status Trait for each beyond the third.
- In the case of gross abuses of the Ritae, the Priscus can Black List the Priest or other participants.
 - ○ No Cainite who has been Black Listed by a Priscus may move up the ranks of other positions without getting a Cardinal, Priscus, or the Regent to remove them from the Black List.
 - ○ In cases where the Black-Listing Prisci is disgraced, their successor will generally remove the Black Listing upon taking office.

NPCs

NPCS (narrator played characters) may hold any Player Character position listed in that section. Below you will find the Sabbat Positions only available to NPCs. PCs may not hold these positions.

Cardinal (Clergy, Sect Position)

What Archbishops do for cities, Cardinals do for whole states (and sometimes even whole countries). They bear personal responsibility for the crusades in their jurisdiction. These individuals will rarely come to power without first rising through the ranks of the Clergy (should such a thing ever happen, such an individual would ritually be promoted through the ranks of the Clergy before taking the position of Cardinal). This Position is Sabbat Coordinator NPC only.

Cardinals gain the following, in addition to all the benefits of being an Archbishop:

- Gain the Feared, Proven, Relentless, and Ominous Status Traits. As long as the Cainite holds the position, these traits cannot be permanently removed.
- The Cardinal can appoint and remove Archbishops within their jurisdiction. This costs the Cardinal one temporary Status Trait for every Archbishop they wish to remove.
- They can appoint (and remove) their own Paladins and Templars. This costs the cardinal a temporary Status Trait for every Paladin they either appoint or remove.
- A Cardinal may spend a Status trait to win any Ritae performance challenge with no test.
- A Cardinal may simply kill a member of the Sabbat of lower rank than them; they do not need to eject them from the sect first.

Consistory (Title)

The Sabbat Consistory is made up of select Prisci, Cardinals, the Regent of the Sabbat, and the Seraphim of the Black Hand. It is the job of the Consistory to appoint a new Regent, as well as decide Sabbat policy and laws. Being a member of the Consistory is an additional position to whatever other position a Cainite may have. Thus, one can be a regular Priscus or a Priscus who is also a member of the Consistory. This Position is Sabbat Coordinator NPC only.

Members of the Consistory:

- Members gain the Devout Status Trait. As long as the character holds membership, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- Only the Consistory may appoint new members to the Consistory. This is done by a vote of the Council.
- The Consistory decides all Sabbat Policy.
- The Regent has the final word on who he makes Cardinals; however, he still requires the support of the Consistory to do so.
- Members of the Consistory can change or alter any Sabbat law, policy, or method on a Sect-wide level by a vote of the Consistory.
- As a whole, the Consistory appoints the Regent of the Sabbat by vote.

Seraphim (Sect Position)

Seraphim are the generals for the Black Hand. While they serve the Regent directly, they also sit on the Consistory with Prisci and Cardinals. This Position is Sabbat Coordinator NPC only.

Those who are Seraphim have the following apply:

- Each Seraphim gains the Branded, Enforced, Engaged, and Feared Status Traits. As long as the character holds the position, these Traits cannot be permanently removed.
- The Seraphim serve the Regent directly. When on service to the Regent, they may carry any weight or authority given to them by the Regent.
- Seraphim may hold no other Sabbat position besides Pack positions and being members of the Consistory while they serve as Seraphim.

The Grand Inquisitor (Sect Position)

The sole leader of the Sabbat's Inquisition. The Grand Inquisitor only answers to the Regent of the Sabbat and serves under their authority and power. As such the Grand Inquisitor holds tremendous power to accuse and execute Sabbat as they desire. This Position is Sabbat Coordinator NPC only.

- The Grand Inquisitor gains the Empowered, Feared, Righteous, and Ominous Status Traits.
- The Grand Inquisitor may appoint or dismiss Inquisitors at any time for any reason.
- The Grand Inquisitor may Judge, Accuse, and Execute any Sabbat member as they desire who is of Archbishop rank or lower. Those of higher stations still require a trial.

The Regent (Clergy, Sect Position)

The Regent has supreme power over the Sect. In practice, subordinates distort or quite simply "lose" orders that they refuse to accept. The result is that the Regent's power depends on his/her personal base of support. The Regent is inevitably an old vampire, who has been selected from within the ranks of the Consistory. With a Sect as large as the Sabbat, power at this level must be delegated for anything to get done. This position is Sabbat Coordinator NPC only.

The Regent gains all the powers of a Cardinal and:

- The Cainite gains the Feared, Proven, Relentless, Ominous, and Supreme Status Trait. As long as the Cainite holds the position, this Trait cannot be permanently removed.
- The Regent can appoint and remove Cardinals. This costs the Regent one temporary Status Trait and also requires the support of the Consistory. They may appoint and remove other (lesser) offices at no cost.
- The Regent can appoint (and remove) their own Templars and Paladins at no cost.
- The Regent wins all Ritae performance challenges without need for a test.
- The Regent can use temporary Status Traits for retests in mental challenges related to his/her role as the Sect's leader (for example, detecting plots against him/her, giving instructions to members of the Sabbat, and so on).
- The Regent's Word is Law in the Sabbat.

Supported

You have gained the support of a friendly, and possibly well-respected, pack. The pack's ductus has granted you the group's support in the form of a special status. Cainites understand that messing with you is likely to incur the pack's disfavor. You tarnishing the name of the pack that supports you is likely to see this trait removed and bring ill repute upon you.

Requirement: Subject to the discretion of the issuing Ductus

Removal: Subject to removal from the issuing Ductus, possibly during a crucial or even at a potentially embarrassing moment. Should the pack behind this status perish or be disbanded, this status is lost.

Source: OWbN

Requirement: Subject to the discretion of the issuing party, who must be ranked Bishop or higher.

Requirement: Subject to the discretion of the Regent or the Cardinal, whose criteria is always subject to change.

Awarded by: Cardinal, Regent of the Sabbat

Removal: Subject to removal by the Regent at any time, should your fortune change. Should the issuer be killed or removed from office, this status is lost.

Distinctions of Infamy and Respect

Notorious

Removal: Subject to removal should the Blood Hunt be lifted. A removal of this sort should be extremely rare.

Source: OWbN

Requirement: The Cainite is blood-hunted in three or more Camarilla domains.

Awarded by: Archbishop or higher; or 5 nomadic priests

Removal: Subject to removal should the total number of Blood Hunts fall below three. A removal of this sort should be extremely rare.

Source: OWbN

Nefarious

Your wake of destruction has earned you world-wide attention. The Sabbat looks to you as a role-model, whereas the Camarilla seeks to kill you on sight. You're the center of attention at any Esbat, but know better than to be caught at an Elysium.

Requirement: The Cainite is globally blood-hunted.

Awarded by: Cardinal or higher

Removal: Subject to removal should the global Blood Hunt be lifted. A removal of this sort should be extremely rare.

Source: OWbN

Anathema

The Camarilla has listed you amongst their most hated of enemies, offering a substantial price for your destruction. Your adventures are legendary among the Sabbat, earning you great celebrity. Traveling in any Camarilla domain is extremely perilous, but your voice carries immense weight in the Sword of Caine.

Requirement: The Cainite is a member of the Camarilla's Red List.

Awarded by: Regent of the Sabbat

Removal: None. Once you've achieved notoriety of this sort, your reputation will endure even if your place on the Red List is reassigned, or expires.

Awarded by: Cardinal

Removal: Automatic at the next Festivo dello Estinto.

Source: OWbN

Martial

At the conclusion of a War Party, members of the winning Pack receive this Status Trait as reward for bringing down the quarry. Requirement: Yours was the pack which completed the War Party.

Awarded by: Bishop or higher; specifically, the one who enacted the Ritae

Removal: Automatic at the next War Party, Palle Grande, Festivo dello Estinto, or Binding.

Source: OWbN

Gifted

With the untimely passing of the Tremere Antitribu, those blood magicians who still remain in the Sword of Caine are especially needed. While the Sabbat recognizes those Cainites who possess magical aptitude, a subtle magus may wish to downplay their ability by not listing this status among their accolades.

Requirement: The Cainite has demonstrated their ability in a paradigm of blood magic towards some end useful to the Sword of Caine.

Awarded by: Pack Priest or higher

Removal: None

Source: OWbN

Tasked

Awarded to all members of a pack that have been tasked by bishop or higher to accomplish a task for the Sabbat. Alternatively it may be awarded to a new or temporary pack established at the direction of the clergy to fulfill the task directed. Normally, the task follows the trait in the listing. Requirement: The Bishop or higher must perform an Ignobilis Ritae anointing each member of the pack and dedicating the pack to accomplish the task. The ritae always ends with a vaulderi to cement the pack's loyalty to one another and the bishop tasking them.

Source: OWbN

Distinctions of Renown

Adept

Awarded to a character that is extremely proficient at a certain skill or ability. Normally, the skill follows the trait in the listing. For example: Adept at Ritae, or Adept at Finances. Note that this is an in-character statement of how adept a character is, and does not necessarily correspond to how many levels of a certain ability the character has on his/her sheet.

Requirement: The Cainite must repeatedly demonstrate their excellence for whatever task they are known to be Adept in. In addition, this demonstration must be beyond a simple pack level, but to that of a diocese as a whole. This status trait may be awarded several times. Requirement: The Cainite has lived without a pack for a month.

Issued by: Any True Sabbat in a pack

Removal: The cainites joins a pack and shares the vaulderi with them for a month.

Source: OWbN

Dangerous

Vampires who endanger packmates for stupid reasons, particularly while on a hunt or other combat-related mission, often find themselves labeled as Dangerous. While the criteria varies between packs, most will only issue it for extremely impractical behavior. However, strict packs may issue this status to those who take any actions which endangers the group.

Requirement: The Cainite has acted dangerously while on a hunt or combat operation.

Issued by: Ductus or Pack Priest within a pack, Bishop or higher in a diocese

Removal: The Cainite must participate in two hunts or combat operations without risky behavior.

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 160

Ignorant

While all Sabbat are free, those who forget what the Sabbat means are often targeted for special ridicule. Sometimes used as a teaching tool, sometimes as humiliation, this status is inflicted upon those who fail to remember essential Sabbat tenets, such as the Code of Milan, or the war against the Antediluvians.

Requirement: The Cainite has made an embarrassing faux pas, forgetting an essential tenet of the Sabbat and its mission.

Issued by: Ductus or Pack Priest within a pack, Bishop or higher in a diocese

Removal: The Cainite must demonstrate that they've learned from their formerly ignorant behavior on two separate occasions.

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 160

Slow

For a race which readily espouses its superiority over the kine, losing any contest of speed to a mortal is especially embarrassing. Cainites who fail to outrace or outwit the mortal populace are typically scorned with the status of Slow.

Requirement: The Cainite has failed to elude humans, whether on foot or in a vehicle

Issued by: Ductus or Pack Priest within a pack, Bishop or higher in a diocese

Removal: The Cainite must make some demonstration of their agile superiority over the kine on two separate occasions

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 160

Untrustworthy

Cainites who hold positions in the Sabbat are expected to do more than simply sit and look pretty. Whether it's the performance of sacred Ritae, or keeping the group haven stocked with vessels, members of the Sword of Caine are expected to execute their duties faithfully and with some degree of competence. Those who fail are subject to the negative status of Untrustworthy.

Requirement: The Cainite has failed at an essential function of their office

Issued by: Any Cainite to another beneath their chain of command

Removal: The Cainite must successfully execute of the duties of their office on two separate occasions

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 160

Vain

While Cainites are predisposed to pride, members of the Sword of Caine should be more careful than to be boastful in ways their actions can't support. Those who talk a big game but go on to spectacularly fail are subject to the Vain status, also known as Cocky, Full of Himself, etc.

Requirement: The Cainite has bragged about their talents in a particular area, and then failed in a spectacular way.

Issued by: Any Cainite to another beneath their chain of command

Removal: The Cainite must make a successful demonstration of their talent in a manner consistent with their bragging on two separate occasions.

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 160

Unfaithful

Priests of the sect who fail the Ritae often have a crisis of faith, and their names are tarnished by it. As it is difficult to perform large gatherings of Ritae, it is a risk many priests take. Those who fail in their faith often have the side effect of that failing spreading to those who saw it.

Requirement: The Priest has failed two simple tests after a failed Ritae challenge

Issued by: Automatic after the two failed tests

Removal: The Cainite must successfully perform two auctoritas Ritae.

Source: OWbN

Questionable

An archbishop of the Sabbat has a number of tools at her disposal to keep the rabble priests in line, one of which is the negative status of Questionable. Considered the first and only warning before being granted the status of Unreliable and placed upon the Black List, the wise Priest is encouraged to get his act together in good order.

Requirement: The Cainite has failed or misused the Sabbat's ritae

Issued by: Archbishop or Higher

Removal: Archbishop or higher. Those who remove a Questionable status inflicted by another Archbishop are sure to incur the disdain of the original issuer.

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 165

Unreliable

Those Priests who truly fail at their duties are subject to extreme punishment by the Archbishop. Those with the status Unreliable are forbidden from performing ritae of any sort, and added to the Black List. Cainites on the Black List cannot be promoted until this status is removed.

Requirement: The Cainite has grossly failed in their duties as Priest.

Issued by: Archbishop or Higher

Removal: Archbishop or higher, with good reason

Source: LotN: Sabbat Guide, p. 165, modified for OWbN

Cowardly

While all Cainites struggle with the Beast, the Sword of Caine is not often tolerant of those who fall victim to it during a crucial moment. Those who fail to maintain control when their courage is challenged are often labeled with the status Cowardly as a reminder of their failure. Note this does not apply to those under the influence of a supernatural power, such as Presence, Animalism or Dominate.

Requirement: The Cainite has failed a Courage check in a hunt or combat operation.

Issued by: Any Cainite to another beneath their chain of command

Removal: The Cainite succeeds in Courage checks in two separate hunts or combat operations.

Source: OWbN

Froggy

While Monomacy allows the settling of disputes between Cainites, the Sabbat does not look favorably upon those who make overtures of challenges, but fail to see them through. Any Cainite who backs out of an issued challenge can be stuck with the status of Froggy to denote their bellicose tendencies.

Requirement: The Cainite has withdrawn or failed to make good on a threat to challenge someone to Monomacy.

Issued by: The Pack Priest of the Cainite challenged to Monomacy

Removal: The Cainite participates in two Monomacy challenges. Challenges where the challenged refuses Monomacy or backs down still count towards this total.

Source: OWbN

Troll

Modern technology has brought about a number of benefits, including the ability for Cainites to communicate with one another outside of an event or Esbat. For some, it affords an opportunity to keep in contact, exchange ideas, and to coordinate strategically. For others, it's a captive audience for their negativity. Those who fail to contribute meaningfully and who act negatively and divisively are labeled as a Troll, and their opinions given little consideration.

Requirement: The Cainite has consistently acted in a negative or divisive manner in a group discussion.

Issued by: Any Cainite of three or more standing than the offending party

Removal: The Cainite contributes meaningfully to two separate group discussions as determined by their Pack Priest.

Tools of Political War

Abilities

Politics:

Only Sabbat vampires may use this ability to gain the Status of Sabbat vampires. With each expenditure of this ability, a vampire may ask what the Status of the vampire is within the Sabbat and what (if any) Faction the vampire is known as a member (if a membership in a faction is unknown then this information is not given). It will also reveal Status-related merits and flaws.

Lore: Sabbat:

The higher this ability, the more likely one is to know more obscure members of the Sabbat. With a successful test using this ability, a vampire may learn what a Sabbat vampire's Status is (not the actual number of different traits, just their general rough "ranking" within the Sabbat).

This ability works in a "reverse manner," of sorts. The chart below shows with what level of the ability you may know the corresponding status level. The Status Level on the chart is the minimum status required to throw the challenge. If the status is higher than the requirement, you may also throw the challenge. The higher the status, the more likely you are to have heard of the vampire. The lower the status, the more obscure they are (and thus require more Sabbat Lore to recognize).

Merits

These Merits now function as follows within the Sabbat. A use of the Politics ability will reveal all of the following merits (and flaws).

Reputation: This merit allows for you to have a title that informs others what your character is known for (or "has a reputation for"). Examples include: Ezekiel "Lord of Montreal," Venere Carboni "The Daemon Maestro," Sascha Vykos "Caine's Angel." This reputation does not factor into the Status system. It allows others to know your PC by that title. As such, this merit does not require Sabbat Coordinator Approval; just the permission of your Storyteller.

Prestigious Sire: Like the Reputation Merit, this informs others that your Sire is a famous member of the Sabbat. Others may choose some form of respect or expect much of you as an heir to such famous blood. This merit does not require Sabbat Coordinator approval unless you are the childe of a White Wolf Canon Sabbat NPC.

Prestigious Lineage: Works as the Merit “Prestigious Sire” but requires a direct line of three sires to qualify. If it is deemed to apply, each member of the lineage may purchase the merit. No character may possess both of the “Prestigious Sire” and “Prestigious Lineage” merits.

Flaws

These Flaws now function as follows within the Sabbat.

Infamous Sire: This Flaw functions as the exact opposite of Prestigious Sire Merit.

Notoriety: This flaw functions as the exact opposite of the Reputation Merit. There is a deed or title associated with the Notoriety. Examples could be “Tor the insane”, “Ed the frenzy machine” or “Misty the useless” Converts are considered to have this flaw for their first year of membership with the Sabbat (with the title “new recruit”).

Probationary Sect Member: You may hold no Status in the Sabbat and are not considered True Sabbat. You are a shovelhead. This Flaw may only be removed upon the character undergoing their Creation Rites.

Special Responsibility This flaw covers some sort of punishment given out for a crime against the sect. It can come in the form of providing vitae for the city or serving as a source of vitae for blood feasts.

Ritae

Monomacy

When challenged “the defender doesn’t have to accept just because the priest approves. Declining involves some loss of status... [but] the defender encounters fewer hassles if the challenger is of much lower rank. Leaders can brush off even genuinely serious claims as just another case of a youngster being uppity” (Laws of the Night: Sabbat Guide, p. 148). Here is a rough guideline for appropriate consequences:

Difference in Status	Cost of Declining Monomacy
Defender has less, equal, or one more status than challenger	Loss of 1 Permanent Reputational Status Trait
Defender has less, equal, or one more status than challenger, and no status to forfeit	Gain of 1 Negative Status Trait
Defender has two more status than challenger	Loss of 1 Temporary Reputational Status Trait for 1 Month
Defender has three more status than challenger	Can decline without penalty

Destruction Rites

This Ignoblis Ritae is only ever taught to those of the clergy who hold the position of Bishop or higher in the Sabbat. It was crafted as the ceremonial rite needed to eject a member of the Sabbat from the sect; to remove their creation rites so to speak. Performing this Ritae is only done against those of the Sabbat who committed heinous crimes against the sect and are no longer worthy of being called Sabbat. A War Party is even sometimes called shortly after the performance of this Ritae.

The Rite itself is an inverse of the Creation Rites. The presiding Bishop (or higher) forces the member of the Sabbat on his knees before the diocese and violently brands them as a traitor to the sect and lists out their deeds against the Sword of Caine. At the end of the Rite, the offending vampire is no longer considered a member of the Sabbat. In addition to this, no simple use of the Creation Rites will bring the Vampire back into the Sabbat. They cannot rejoin the sect unless they receive the creation rites from either the Bishop (or Higher) that performed the Destruction Rites or they are welcomed back by the Consistory itself. While this rite is not Required to eject someone from the Sabbat, it is used to make sure that an ejected member can not simply just undergo the creation rites by their packmates etc to undo the will of the hierarchy.

A Sect At War

War Parties and Wild Hunts

If a Sabbat member is the subject of a Wild Hunt, they may not use their Status for ANY purpose. Follow all of the rules for a character that does not have the Initiated Status Trait (for the subject of a Wild Hunt). The individual in question may still choose to ignore another Status, and thus gain those benefits and drawbacks.

If a Sabbat is the subject of a War Party, they may not use their Status for ANY purpose. Follow all of the rules as if the character subject to the War Party is ignoring Status. Additionally, Negative Status Traits cannot be bid against an individual who has a War Party called against them.

Status Outside of the Sabbat

The Sabbat does not give Status or Prestige to those who are not members of the sect.

Crimes and Punishments

Sabbat justice generally does not follow a uniform process nor does the process repeat itself in each instance. Some Cardinals, for example, could simply kill a full member of the Sabbat outside of Monomacy and suffer no repercussions for this. The argument is largely, if you are famous enough, important enough, and can get away with it, you do. A quorum of Prisci to judge crimes committed in the sect is NOT the standard, or the correct course for most disputes. This confusion often comes from Code of Milan itself, particularly Article 15 (All Sabbat possess the right to call a council of their peers and their immediate leaders.) and Article 16 (All Sabbat shall act against Sect members who use the powers and authority the Sabbat has given them for personal gain at the expense of the Sabbat. Action shall be taken only through accepted means, approved by a quorum of Prisci.). Roleplay, argument, and support allow for alternate interpretations of the Code. Cainites CAN kill outside of Monomacy and maybe even get away with it. There are no mechanics intentionally as punishment is something that should involve roleplay. These suggested forms of punishment appear on page 45 of the Table Top Guide to the Sabbat:

Crime	Punishment
Treason Against the Sect	Torture and dismemberment in whatever poetic fashion the “judge” decides (includes being thrown off buildings, being drawn and quartered, having limbs removed, etc)
Murdering a fellow Sabbat	Diablerie at the hands of the murdered vampire’s pack (or a pack of an elder’s choice, should the victim have been an elder.)
Deceiving Sabbat leaders	Burning or flaying
Failure to respond to a leader’s call	Branding or mutilation (often the vampire loses a hand)
Striking a vampire of greater station	Blinding, mutilation (often the vampire suffers several broken bones)

Associating with Camarilla vampires	First Offense: Censure Second Offense: Flogging Third Offense: Staking or Death
Failure to accomplish an important mission assigned by leaders	Spite” punishment, generally of a humiliating nature (such as cutting off the vampire’s nose, branding his forehead with an “F”, dashing out his teeth, etc)
Displays of cowardice	Blood Feast for fellow pack members, though the vampire is usually left undead to atone for himself.
